INTRODUCTION

On the 675 rolls of this microfilm publication are reproduced passenger lists of vessels arriving at the port of New York from foreign ports, January 1820 through mid-June 1897. Most of the documents reproduced are original passenger lists submitted by masters of vessels to the Collector of Customs at New York; several of them for the period 1820-74, however, are copies that were inserted as substitutes for missing or illegible original documents. The "retake" flash cards at the beginning of some rolls identify certain lists for the period 1875-97 that were refilmed to improve their legibility.

Other passenger lists that had been submitted in compliance with 1882 legislation to regulate immigration and that were in the custody of the Immigration Service at New York were destroyed by a fire on June 15, 1897, at Ellis Island.

The passenger lists on this microcopy are arranged in chronological order by arrival date of vessel. They are numbered serially beginning with 1 for each calendar year. This number, which was assigned when the documents were prepared for filming, appears on the insert page that precedes each reproduced list. The insert sheet also usually contains the name of the vessel, port of embarkation, and date of arrival.

An act of March 2, 1819 (3 Stat. 488), provided that effective January 1, 1820, the captain or master of a vessel arriving at a port in the United States or its territories from a foreign country was to submit a list of the passengers to the collector of customs in the district where the vessel arrived. The act also provided that for each quarter year every collector should submit copies of the lists to the Secretary of State, who, in turn, was to report on them at each session of Congress. The Secretary's reports, published in Congressional documents, indicate by port of arrival the number of passengers, nationality, and occupation. An act of May 7, 1874, provided that instead of sending copies of passenger lists to the Secretary of State, the collectors should submit such reports to the Secretary of the Treasury as he should direct.

The lists of passengers arriving at the port of New York include unbound original lists, 1820-97; unbound copies of these lists, 1820-74; and eight bound volumes of transcripts of the copies, 1820-27. The original lists were transferred to the National Archives from the Bureau of Customs, Department of the Treasury. The copies of the lists and six of the bound volumes of transcripts were transferred from the Immigration and Naturalization Service, Department of Justice; the other two bound volumes, from the Department of State.

The lists themselves and copies of them are arranged chronologically by date of arrival of the vessels. Each list or copy normally gives the name of the vessel, its master, port of embarkation, date of its arrival, and the following information about each passenger: name, age, sex, occupation, the country to which he belongs, the country of which he intends to become an inhabitant, and, if he died en route, the date and circumstances of his death. The law required that the list be sworn to by the master in the presence of the collector.

The transcripts, originally consisting of nine bound volumes, presumably were prepared in the Office of the Secretary of State from copies of the passenger lists received from the collectors of customs. They contain information concerning passengers arriving at various ports during the years 1819-32 but at New York during 1820-27 only. Volume 2 (apparently from July 1, 1820, to September 30, 1821) is missing. The entries are arranged chronologically by quarter year of arrival, thereunder by name of district or port, thereunder by name of vessel, and finally by name of passenger. A typical entry also shows the name of the master of the vessel and, for each passenger, his name, age, sex, and occupation, country to which he belongs, and country that he intended to inhabit. The pages in volumes 5, 8, and 9 are numbered; those in the other volumes are unnumbered.

All entries in volume 1 and some entries presumably in the missing volume 2 are in a U.S. Department of State report to Congress, Letter from the Secretary of State With a Transcript of the List of Passengers Who Arrived in the United States from the 1st October, 1819, to the 30th September, 1820 (16th Cong., 2d sess., S. Doc. 118, serial 45). A copy of this publication, with a typescript index, is in the National Archives Library.

If an original list concerning an arrival during 1820-27 is not reproduced on this microcopy, a copy of the list may be in the appropriate bound volume of transcripts or in the State Department report cited above. If not, it is possible that the arrival occurred at a port other than New York.

An alphabetical card index to the names on the passenger lists of vessels arriving at the port of New York during the years 1820-46 and some later years has been reproduced on film (Microcopy 261). The index, which has some omissions, was prepared under the sponsorship of the Immigration and Naturalization Service by the Work Projects Administration between 1935 and 1937. The information on the index cards was obtained from copies of the passenger lists that were in the custody of the Service.

The records reproduced on this microcopy are part of a body of records in the National Archives designated as Record Group 36, Records of the Bureau of Customs. In the same record group are journals of vessel entrances, alphabetical indexes to them, and abstracts of tonnage duties paid at New York, 1820-97 (with gaps). These records serve as finding aids to names and dates of arrival of vessels during the period covered by this microfilm publication.

Related records are in Record Group 56, General Records of the Department of the Treasury. They include letters received by the Secretary of the Treasury from the New York Collector of Customs, 1833-69 (part of Microcopy 174); copies of correspondence of the Secretary with the New York Collector, 1828-33 (part of Microcopy 178); and copies of letters sent by the Secretary to the New York Collector, 1833-47 (part of Microcopy 175) and others for the period 1847-1909. In the same record group are correspondence registers and indexes that include entries for letters to and from Federal immigration authorities at New York, 1890-1902.

In Record Group 85, Records of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, is correspondence that contains some information relating to immigration through the port of New York, 1882-1903. In the same record group are microfilm copies of passenger lists or manifests dated from June 16, 1897, to 1942 that include names not only of immigrants but also of visitors and of American citizens returning from abroad. Copies of these lists that are less than 50 years old and the related indexes, however, are subject to restrictions.
